High Wages, High Dividends
When a Dreamer Wakes
Poor Building, Poor Lamb
Overalls and a Baby Sister

By Arthur Brisbane
GERARD SWOFF, president of the General Electric Co., tells the International Chamber of Commerce it is the business of each industry to regulate employment, and avoid seasonal or cyclical periods of idleness. Mr. Swoff gave his associates, the other industrial kings, sound advice. Their prosperity depends absolutely on the property of their own and others' employees. It is the SIXTY THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS EARNED AND SPENT EVERY YEAR BY AMERICAN WORKERS IN NORMAL TIMES, THAT MAKES PROSPERITY. The few that live on unearned income cannot absorb the nation's automobile, radio, washing machine, or vacuum cleaner output.

Aloys Meyer of Luxembourg, head of the Europe's "steel cartel," which means an international trust, advocates lower wages and lower standards of living. For American employers this would mean lower prosperity, lower standards of dividends. Cutting $3 from a 35-day wage would cut ONE HUNDRED PER CENT of the workers' spending for anything beyond food and lodging. Mr. Meyer says "high wages caused the depression." The fact is that high wages POSTPONED the depression. Our prosperity came from buying and high wages were buying possible.

If in search of encouraging thoughts, try this: In 1929 our "great mind" assured us that the depression wouldn't last, everything would be going sweetly in the spring of 1930.

THEY WERE WRONG. New sense came from excessive optimism to excessive pessimism, predicting a long depression. Perhaps they are wrong AGAIN. Once wrong, twice wrong is often the rule.

Right or wrong, the intelligent citizen will not waste time wondering when the depression will end, but will get to work in the only sure business—the business of his own mind. "Somebody in a beautiful dress and good mountains, sold me some money," said the man in the morning suit, who was in a car with you. "You want to see me?" "Yes, please." "You must be at the office by eight. You don't say." "Put me back in the car, give me a ride to the office." "You got up, dress, put on your shoes and go downtown."

That's what everybody should do, put on his shoes, go to work, and never mind about the dream that was disturbed in October, 1929. This is a big country, plenty of room, plenty of sunshine, plenty of opportunity, too much of all the important things, from money to coal, oil, cotton to copper, and wheat. To pull success and independence out of depression all you need do is work. You cannot, Mr. S. W. Wernick, "Talk, yourself something in."

A sad little story is connected with Tuesday's flight of the J-3 from the government naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J. A nine-month-old bull pup, seized on the rope while the strain was holding down the gas bag. He enjoyed the work and could not get up his mind to let go when the others let go. The gas bag was carried him up 400 feet, then he dropped. He is somewhere among New Jersey's pine trees. Tige will have the sympathy of certain bulldogs in "Wall Street" that, also, could not make up their minds to let go.

Bryan Untied, Colorado boy who saved several lives in the March blizzard, is out of the White House, back in his overalls, at home, helping his mother with the weekly washing, and his father feeding the pigs. Asked about Washington's wonder he said he hadn't seen anything as fine as his baby sister. He told her in his arms for a while, before he put away his mother's clothes and on to his overalls. Young Untied doesn't know it, but the President is happier than he has been, when he is behind in Washington. Overalls, the country and a baby sister make a pleasant combination.

Finland's beer, with alcoholic content rated from 1.6 to 2.3, is welcomed so enthusiastically that breweries are unable to produce enough. Yet there has been no drunkenness, for such beer, it is said, does not intoxicate.

Finland's absolute prohibitionists object calling it an "entering wedge." Prohibitionists in the United States would not permit the sale of such beer, and if they wanted to permit it, bootleggers would prevent it.

IDENTITY OF WOUNDED IN AUTO, SAYS ROBINSON IS REVEALED

Mrs. Marion Smith, 48, of Attleboro Companion of the Weymouth Man

William Robinson of Southview ave., Weymouth, who with a woman companion was forced to complete a dash, escaping their shoes, in the woods at Hingham by holding men and today said the woman was Mrs. Marion Smith, 48, of Attleboro. Previously Robinson and the police had referred to her only as "Mrs. Smith" and "Miss Smith," and it was understood this was a fictitious name, to shield her identity.

ROBINSON MAN KNOWN. Slowly recovering from a highly nervous condition, the result of his experience, Robinson quoted Police Chief Ellis of North Easton as saying that police knew the identity of one of the holdup men—a man, with peculiar, piglike eyes with a sort of cloud over them. Robinson's nervousness was matched by his anger at the gunmen for forcing him and his companion—a business acquaintance of only a few hours—to strip in the street.

Robinson, who is 38 and married, with a child four years old, said this was his third holdup. He said he was robbed by gunmen on a fast, railroad train near Buffalo, and again aboard a bus in the West. He is a graduate of Colby College, class of 1914, and was captain of the football team there. He is employed as salesman by a Somerset painless-death concern.

Under DOCTOR'S CARE. Speaking for her husband, who he was sleeping today under operation administered by a physician to quiet his nerves, Mrs. Robinson continued on Page 5, Column 5.

Clara Bow, who denies vigorously an attempt to disfigure her beauty for life by slashing her throat with a knife in a suicide attempt. The report said she was saved by Rex Bell, who snatched the knife from her. She is now in a sanitarium as the result of a breakdown.

RUMORS TRAIL "IT" OF FILMS

Hollywood, Cal., May 7.—Clara Bow was isolated in a sanitarium today while the film colony debated reports and denials of herself that she had disfigured herself in a suicide attempt.

A report that she had cut her throat with a knife, marring her beauty perhaps forever, was vigorously denied. At the same time it was admitted that she may remain in the sanitarium for six months and then "become isolated from the world on a long sea voyage."

The student, Richard P. Wesley of Buffalo, N. Y., was given marked bills by Louis, Stephen J. Hille and signalled to the investigating officers after he had passed them to Phillips, the police report stated. Wesley claimed that he was driving two other students and a girl friend home from a party Wednesday night when Phillips overtook them in his motorcar and charged Wesley with driving while under the influence of liquor.

EXHAUSTED GETS TWO YEARS ON ISLAND

In one of the biggest surprises in the history of Suffolk court, Oliver B. Garrett, former police liquor rider, pleaded guilty today to conspiracy and accepting gratuities while a member of the Boston police department.

His sudden turn came after a three-hour session with Mrs. Garrett, a co-defendant.

Judge H. P. Williams imposed two two-year sentences in the House of Correction on each indictment, the sentences to run concurrently, in addition to a $100 fine.

The case of Mrs. Garrett and Miss Lillian V. Hatch were continued.

Mrs. Garrett was in tears continually during the conference with her husband, Lillian V. Hatch, another defendant, sat apart from the couple.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, immediately after the plea was entered, asked that substantial sentences at state prison be imposed.

The conference was called after several delays during the day, the first of which was due to a report of Mrs. Garrett's counsel that she was ill at home.

After Doyle asked the court permission for a medical examination of Mrs. Garrett, her attorney defended the latter immediately before the court.

MRS. GARRETT IN TEARS. She appeared weak and evidently under great strain. Less than half an hour later, Garrett, who had been in court morning in custody of an officer from Charles at jail, met his wife and the latter immediately burst into tears.

Other cases being heard in the first criminal session courtroom today, the couple then left over the move. They were visited often by Atty. Herbert P. Callahan for Garrett and William S. Kinney, who succeeded Daniel J. Gallagher as counsel for Mrs. Garrett and Miss Hatch. Callahan reported the appearance of Judge Williams in the assignment session of the court while Judge William A. Burns, Garrett and Miss Hatch were in court. Continued on Page 2, Column 1

TEARS FLOW FOR BAGNI, NOW ACCUSED, SAYS BISHOP

THE DEFENDANTS' JURY IS OUT
Time Taken Out for Lunch Before Deliberation on the Case Is Started

The Middlesex Superior Criminal Court jury which will decide the fate of three Somerville youths charged with the slaying of Evangelista L. Bagni, Somerville filling station proprietor, began its deliberations at 2:25 today.

The case was placed in their hands at 1:15, but under instructions of Judge John M. Gibbs the jurors were taken to lunch before beginning their deliberations.

The defendants, John J. Oliver, John D. Wall and Walter Bonet, were locked up in East Cambridge Jail to await the finding of the jury.

Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop finished his final argument at 1:19 and Judge Gibbs charged to the jury was concluded at 1 o'clock. Then followed a brief conference at the bench, after which the judge clarified certain points in the evidence and turned the case over to the jurors.

The district attorney, in his argument, moved many in his audience to tears.

Mrs. Bagni and her two daughters sobbed audibly, and several women spectators wept at the district attorney's words. His sympathy was with the bereaved family.

The defendants looked away as Bishop hinted them for alleged participation in the slaying and declared there is no self-defense in a cold robbery.

NO SYMPATHY FOR ACCUSED
The district attorney, whose argument followed three of defense counsel made yesterday, said, in part:

"I am naturally sympathetic, but I haven't a spark of sympathy to give these three men," pointing at the defendants. "I do feel for their mothers and poor old fathers for this great sorrow which has been thrown upon them in their twilight years by these three men."

"I give sympathy for this lady," pointing to Mrs. Bagni, "and for these three children, who must go through life bereft of their mother and father, who will never come home again."

TEARS FOR BAGNI
"If there are tears to be shed they should fall on the green ground over Bagni's grave."

He said there is no mob spirit in Middlesex County, but there is a spirit of manhood which demands punishment for crime. In the old days, the district attorney said, passengers in taxi cabs who were held up were given a chance to elevate their hands. There was no murder, he said, unless resistance was made.

The district attorney then went on to describe the holdup and the slaying of Bagni, which took place alone in the filling station. He said he wished there was a law under which he could proceed for the killing of the dog. The defendant, he said, was a consciousness of guilt in their original story to the police.

Good Elopement Story Is Spoiled
Worcester, May 7.—A faint hearted spoiled a perfectly good "elopement" story today when Miss Marie T. Cardwell, 18, came home to her.

With Lois C. Whipple, 18, of Alvarado ave., she was reported missing since Tuesday. Miss Cardwell said they visited relatives of Whipple at Marlborough, but decided to leave when they learned they were sought by police. Whipple, she said, left the bus they were on at the Shrewsbury line as he was afraid to go home.

SCHNEIDER CUP WINNER DIES

Alderhot, England, May 7 (AP)—Flight Lieut. M. R. D. Waghorn, winner of the Schneider Cup Trophy in 1929, died at Cambridge Military Hospital today from injuries received when his plane crashed near Farnborough Tuesday.

Lieut. Waghorn and a fellow pilot, E. R. Alexander, took to their parachutes when their ship went out of control in a high take. The former landed on the roof of a house, sustaining injuries to his head and limbs. Alexander was not as seriously hurt.

Lieut. Waghorn attained a speed of 224 miles per hour in his Royal Air Force plane. The crash marks the first fatality in the Schneider Cup for Great Britain two years ago. The death and follows closely the tragic end of Lieut. Conrad, Glen Kidston, who crashed against a mountain in Natal, South Africa, last Tuesday.

INVALID HOPS TO SUMMER HOME

Because her condition would not permit her to travel by automobile, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Conroy, 60, of 25 Peterboro st., Back Bay, an invalid, took the air to reach her summer home today.

Mrs. Conroy who has been bedridden a year, left East Boston airport in a seaplane piloted by Henry W. Wickes of Revere, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Lillian Conroy.

Their destination was Lake Umbagog, four miles outside of Augusta, Me.

Mrs. Conroy's sister, Mrs. Annie O. Cooper, of 5 West st., Dorchester, and her nephew, Arthur J. Cooper, saw the plane off. An ambulance transported Mrs. Conroy from her home to the airport.

She is the mother of John F. Conroy, former instructor at the U. S. Naval Academy, last Tuesday.

WOMAN REFILES SENATORS IN CANNON CASE

Threatened with Prosecution Like That That Jailed Sinclair

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Chairman Nye of the Senate campaign funds committee was defied today by Miss Ada Burroughs of Richmond, Va., called as the first witness in the inquiry into the use of funds by Bishop James Cannon in the 1928 campaign.

Miss Burroughs flatly declined to give any testimony after reading a lengthy statement protesting the authority of the committee.

Chairman Nye called her after Bishop Cannon had asked if his letter or protest would be made a part of the record. Nye said it would.

Miss Burroughs' statement was similar to the Bishop's protest. She, too, declared the federal corrupt practices act unconstitutional.

SINCLAIR CASE RECALLED
Harry F. Sinclair, a millionaire oil operator, served a jail sentence for refusing to testify to a Senate committee.

Looking straight at Nye, holding a black purse in her hands, Miss Burroughs answered all questions with a mildly apologetic "I decline to testify," said Miss Burroughs.

"You feel you are acting on good authority in taking this position?" Nye asked in a warning tone.

Burroughs asked she was satisfied on her position.

STANDS BY STATEMENT.
Nye asked if she prepared her statement.

"I decline to answer," she responded, and then hastily added: "I prepared the statement myself."

Senator Dill said he did not believe Miss Burroughs' statement, and that she prepared her own answer to stand, reminding her it included numerous legal objections.

"I said in my statement that I received legal help," she replied.

Mr. Burroughs in her statement denied this and stated that she had no legal help.

"I testified to that, but refused to state who helped me," she said.

"I have nothing to add to my statement," she concluded.

HATHAWAY DAIL DEMANDED IN COURT MOTION

Another of Eight Filed at Newport Asks Quashing of Indictment

Newport, May 7.—A motion to release on bail Elliott R. Hathaway, accused slayer of Verna Russell, student nurse, was included in the list of eight filed today by his counsel at superior court here.

Clerk Sidney W. Harvey docketed the motions and forwarded them immediately by mail to the clerk of Providence Superior Court, where they will be argued by Hathaway's lawyer, before Judge Charles A. Walsh on May 12.

ASKS CHANGE OF VENUE
While court officials declined to review the venue of the motions, it is known that one petition for a change of venue on the ground that the hostile attitude toward Hathaway in Newport would preclude his chance of obtaining a fair trial.

Another seeks to quash the indictment of first degree murder against Hathaway because of the defense claim that persons other than those charged with the responsibility of directing a grand jury were present in the grand jury room when the indictment was returned.

A motion asking for a bill of particulars is requested, and it is feared, will force Atty. Gen. McLaughlin to request a writ of habeas corpus to provide the defense with the State's evidence. Another asks the State to invoke an old law giving defense counsel the right to examine all persons having knowledge of taking their deposition.

McYMAN RIGHTS DELAY
Atty. Gen. McLaughlin will oppose the motions and argue against any delay in the trial scheduled for June 4.

McLaughlin also filed a petition asking that he be permitted to take the deposition of witnesses residing in Massachusetts. These witnesses include Dr. George W. McLaughlin, chief criminologist; Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Warren, State Detective John Ferris, Atty. Atty. William C. Crossley, the state girl's dentist; physicians attached to the Fall River hospital in which she was detained; and others.

Steamship Cuts Smaller Boat in Half While Going Through Sound

Three Greater Boston men were drowned and five rescued when the Boston tug Trimont was cut down by the Eastern Steamship liner New York in dense fog off Race Rock, Long Island sound, early today.

The lost were Peter Webb, cook, of 119 Harvard st., Everett, married and father of six children; Daniel Christman, deckhand, and Edward "Chris" Anderson, welder, of Everett.

A fourth man, known only as Farnsworth, was said to have been aboard the dredge tender Alice, in tow of the Trimont, but was not found when the tender was picked up by the Coast Guard and taken to New London.

FIVE ARE RESCUED.
Capt. C. B. Bethel of Wintthrop and the four members of the tug's crew were taken to New York by the steamship, which was en route to that city from Boston.

In addition to the captain they are John Lovett of East Boston, second in command; Leonard Snow, chief engineer, 125 Treason st., East Boston; Julius Lind, second engineer, 83 Arden st., Dorchester; and N. Bos, deckhand.

The safety of himself and his four men was reported by Capt. Bethel by telephone from New York to H. T. Griggs, manager of the Trimont Dredging Co., 19 State st., owners of the tugboat.

TUG CUT IN TWO.
He said the New York appeared suddenly out of the fog and sliced the tug almost in half with her sharp bow.

The New York stood by and lifeboats from both craft were lowered, while radio messages were flashed for help. Approximately 300 passengers on the liner crowded the rails as the search for missing members of the tug's crew went on.

Five coast guard boats, on running duty in the vicinity, because of the heavy fog, arrived shortly after and their searchlights aided in the search.

Five other patrol boats were ordered out of the New London base, and the 10 patrol boats came without success.

When it became certain that the missing members of the Trimont's crew could not be located, the tug was taken aboard the New York, which proceeded to her destination.

The steamship was in command of Capt. William B. Corning of Gloucester, Mass.

TRIES SUICIDE, CHANGES MIND

Walking into the accident ward at Boston City Hospital early today, Miss Helen Cunliff, 34, a waitress, living on Worcester st., South End, addressed Dr. Linwood Merrill, saying:

"Doctor, how many poison tablets must I take to die?"

She was rushed to the operating room where she was given an anesthetic. She told the physicians at the hospital she wanted to die but changed her mind and decided to run to the hospital. She will recover, officials say.

Woman Is Robbed in St. Mary's Church

Theft of her handbag while she was at devotions in St. Mary's Church, North End, was reported to the police today by Miss Helen Barry of Albion st., Allston. It was of black suede and contained eye glasses and a pair of tickets for a play which she was to see later.

Dr. Bonner, one of the alumnus selected to examine the boy, said that the report would go direct to Dr. George M. Kline, superintendent of the State Department for Mental Diseases. It will then be turned over to Det. Atty. Hugh A. Clegg with an additional delegation for each 1930 in each community.

Following the holding of the primary, a party convention composed of the delegates would be held on later than June 15 at which the party platform would be drawn up and candidates for state-wide office endorsed.

The usual state primary in September would be continued.

Court Is Held in Ambulance, Drunk Gets Jail Term

Court was held in a Rumorville police ambulance today when Timothy O'Connor, 52, a paralytic, charged with drunkenness, pleaded guilty before Judge Stewart and was sentenced to 30 days in the House of Correction.

The defendant was arrested a week ago in the Gold Coast section of Rumorville and in default of $500 bail was sent to East Cambridge jail. He was taken from a bed in the jail hospital today for court arraignment.

Lying in the ambulance, he listened to the charge and entered his plea. O'Connor's home is in Yarmouth st., Allston.

Federal officers today arrested Dorothy Munro, 18-year-old Brooklyn girl, on a charge of violating the Mann act, as she walked into Roxbury district court for arraignment on a salutory charge.

She was arrested in an Astor st. lodging house with Julius Rappaport, a Filipino, with whom, police charge, she had been living for the past week.

Rappaport and the girl were taken to the Federal building detention room after government officers learned Rappaport had brought her from New York to Boston.

Torch Singer DINED WITH GAY PARTIES

New York Woman Names Peggy as the Companion of Husband at Night Clubs

New York, May 7.—The name of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, star in numerous marital court dramas of her own, appeared yesterday in the supporting cast of another woman's domestic difficulties.

Mrs. Sylvia Lester Davis named, like much-married Peggy and Helen Morgan, an eight-year-old son and a companion of the torch-singer, as companions of her husband, Robert H. Davis, Jr., in an almost session of merry-making in a fashionable night club.

WIFE ASKS $30,000
Peggy's name was brought by Mrs. Davis into her suit for separate maintenance of $30,000 a year in the Manhattan Supreme Court. Peggy herself is touring the country with her vaudeville act.

Through her attorney, Mrs. Davis testified that Peggy lived at Davis, with one of Davis' fellow members of the torch club, formed an exuberant foursome in the night club on the night of April 22.

Davis, through his counsel, admitted sitting at a table with the two celebrated chameleons, but made light of the incident.

"I did sit at a table with these two other people," he testified, "but I did not touch the husband's affidavit said. 'My wife is sufficiently familiar with New York night life to know how to make such an innocent statement.'"

MAID TELLS STORY
Furthermore, Davis introduced witnesses who told the court that Davis himself had a weakness for the company of other men than his husband.

Sara L. Brown, a nursemaid in the Davis household, testified that during a vacation with Mrs. Davis at Palm Beach she was aroused at all hours of the night by strange men calling for Mrs. Davis.

GOT OUT, BUT CAN'T GET BACK

London, Ont. May 7 (AP)—An international conflict in immigration rules has been forced to a head—long the time being, at least—a young woman without a country.

Mrs. Upper was formerly a resident of Canada. Her husband is an American citizen and lives at Endicott, N. Y. Some time ago Mrs. Upper left her husband and joined her brother, Norman Dent, here. When she tried to return to Canada, she was stopped at the border by American immigration men.

According to United States law she is a Canadian, but Canada holds that she is an American because she has been naturalized in the United States.

The investigation began after counsel for the National City Bank directed attention to circulars stating that Gordon P. Harrison, secretary of the association, had an account with the bank, and after R. B. Cunningham of Cleveland, O., and Ben Newman of Buffalo, N. Y., had written the bank inquiring if checks of the association would be good.

The attorney advised that he had been told by the bank that saying the association, nor Harrison, had an account there.

NOBLE MENTAL PRE-PRIMARY REPORT READY

Lawrence, May 7.—The report on the mental condition of Russell B. Noble, alleged Haverhill hammer slayer, has been completed after five visits, it was announced today by Dr. Clarence A. Bonner, superintendent of Danvers State Hospital.

Dr. Bonner, one of the alumnus selected to examine the boy, said that the report would go direct to Dr. George M. Kline, superintendent of the State Department for Mental Diseases. It will then be turned over to Det. Atty. Hugh A. Clegg with an additional delegation for each 1930 in each community.

Following the holding of the primary, a party convention composed of the delegates would be held on later than June 15 at which the party platform would be drawn up and candidates for state-wide office endorsed.

The usual state primary in September would be continued.

POND DRAGGED FOR "SUICIDE"

Saugus police related today in view that John Skahan, 39, missing since Friday, was a suicide in July 1929.

After refusing yesterday to heed the request of Mrs. Catherine Skahan to drag the pond, Police Chief Roland Mansfield today assigned men to the task.

He said information from William Melanson of Lynn and George George of Saugus that they saw Skahan near the pond Saturday, caused him to change his mind.

His refusal yesterday was caused by a report that Skahan was seen in an automobile apparently in flight from the town.

Roosevelt Power Board Unalarmed

Albany, N. Y., May 7.—The five-power authority trustees named by Gov. Roosevelt to develop the St. Lawrence hydro-electric plan for New York, spending $203,000,000, selling bonds and fixing electric rates, will not receive one cent in salary.

They will be paid their expenses and $100 a day when traveling the maximum for Frank P. Walsh, New York, lawyer; Morris I. Cooke, Philadelphia, engineer; Prof. James C. Beoughier, Columbia University, Fred Freston, master of the New York Grange, and Deas M. Coggrave, Watertown.

CAROL MAY WED LOVE MATE OF HIS EXILE

Boston, May 7 (INS)—Rumors that King Carol II of Rumania was contemplating a romantic marriage with Miss, Magda Lupescu, his companion during five years of exile in France, gained renewed circulation here today with the feature of Princess Matene, Carol's divorced wife, for Belgrade.

Princess Matene, who steadfastly refused to consent to a reconciliation with Carol, because he neither renounced his rights in the throne years ago in favor of Miss Lupescu, will take up permanent residence in Belgrade, according to current reports.

Her departure, carried at last with a whimper, apparently, was said to be the result of a secret conference on Tuesday between Carol and King Alexander of Yugoslavia aboard the latter's yacht in the Danube.

For several weeks Carol has been reported planning a drastic reorganization of royal affairs both public and private. Speculation elsewhere have charged he was contemplating establishment of a military dictatorship, with the object of enabling his marriage to Miss Lupescu, who still remains just as much a favorite as she was in the days of his exile.

The departure of Princess Matene was seen as the result in Carol's chain, the first link in the recent dissolution of Parliament.

FIGHT ON CRIME IS URGED BY WICKERSHAM

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission today urged the American Law Institute to enlist its scholarship and research in the fight on crime.

Wickersham, who is also president of the institute, said in opening his ninth annual session that he felt the time had come for intensive study and clarification of criminal law, and asked the institute to undertake the work.

"The time for such action is peculiarly opportune," he said, adding that the work of the law enforcement commission would come to an end on June 30. He said reports on some of its crime studies would be issued soon and that the information should be helpful in the law observance problem.

"Two years to all too short a time," he said, "in which to make thorough and searching investigations into the effect of law, or lack of law, or into the social problems involved in the present unsatisfactory condition of observance of our criminal law." No thoughtful person who followed "the occurrences of our daily lives can fail to note the existence of a widespread lack of respect for law," he said.

France Hoards Gold Until It Hurts, Says Flandin

Paris, May 7 (INS)—France has suffered from rather than benefited by the heavy accumulation of gold in the Bank of France, Minister of Finance Pierre Flandin-Flandin declared in an address here.

His remarks were made in response to criticisms by Dr. Hans Lothar, president of the Reichsbank, over the present gold distribution.

M. Flandin said the accumulation of gold was due to "psychological factors beyond the control of finance."

STUDENTS BALK AT DRILL

Columbus, O., May 7 (AP)—The weekly parade drill and review Wednesday will be the signal for a strike by several hundred Ohio State University students against military training.

The "zero hour" was set at a mass meeting on the campus amid cheers and jeers and a few scuffles.

The movement, however, did not gain full sympathy. A group of uniformed students stood by to join

Vienna Professor Says Voice Tells Character

Berlin, May 7 (INS)—The voice is a certain indication of a person's character, according to Prof. Karl Buehler, Viennese psychologist.

In order to test this theory, Buehler is arranging a large scale experiment to get the voice reaction of many people.

He will have his name test read by a number of different voices and will then ask the radio listeners to write him what particular deductions they made regarding the character of the owner of each voice.

SOUTHERN PINE FOR WOOD PULP

New York, May 7 (AP)—Dr. Charles A. Jerty, industrial consulting chemist, believes the newspaper and wood pulp industry will shift from New York, England and Canada to the south.

He displayed sample paper from southern slash pine trees at the exposition of chemical industries Tuesday.

The sample paper, he explained, was pulped by the ordinary sulphite process by the Federal Department of Agriculture and he said, so far it had proved successful.

ful. This indicated that slash, low-bush, short leaf and long leaf pine, hitherto considered useless for newspaper, could be utilized.

Paper makers considered southern pine contained too much resin for pulp, but new tests, Dr. Jerty explained, showed that pine contained little resin the first 25 years of its life.

DRIVE STARTED ON CHAMBER TO CUT TARIFF

New York, May 7 (AP)—A group of economists, editors and lawyers has notified the International Chamber of Commerce, now meeting in Washington, of the formation of a non-political American organization, known as the Council for Tariff Reduction.

It will press upon Congress "the absolute need of prompt action as the approaching session in the reduction of the tariff of 1931, the effects of which have been immediately evident both within our borders and in international relations."

"Candidates connected with tariff-making have for the first time in many years developed public interest in the tariff," said the letter of notification.

The signers are Prof. David R. May, Prof. Irving Fisher, Prof. F. W. Taussig, George Gordon Bates, William J. Abraham, Norman M. Davis, J. M. Dillard, Henry W. Parsons, Harry E. Hamilton, Raymond B. Foulke, Howard Chandler Christy, Harry A. Garfield and George Foster Peabody.

300 CHILDREN TO SEE CIRCUS

Three hundred children from Greater Boston institutions have been attending Ringling Bros. circus today as a result of the generosity of the members of Harry E. Burroughs.

The newboys who had been in the circus for the first time, decided they would enjoy the show better if they "clipped in" and paid for the admissions of their orphaned and destitute children.

From their meagre earnings the newboys raised a fund sufficient to pay for the admission of 300 orphaned children from the Greater Boston institutions, the orphaned and destitute children will go to the circus in state buses donated by Ringling Bros. Eastern Grayhound line and Eastern Massachusetts R. Ry. Co.

Hurt in N. Y. Fire Dog Hero Loses Life

New York, May 7 (AP)—Five dogs were hurt today at 20th St., injured by a fire burning in a tenement house in the city.

The dog was found later dead. Benjamin Black, 30, who led his dog and child to safety from the fire, collapsed from burns. A woman clinging to a ladder rescued a 14-year-old boy and injured a dislocated shoulder.

Wild Horses Named as Menace to Sheep

Calgary, Alta., May 7 (AP)—Hundreds of wild horses roaming Southern Alberta brought a new menace to the provincial government today.

Sheep ranchers and Premier Brownlee and declared the horses were driving sheep from streams. The delegation asked the provincial government to destroy the animals.

N. H. Cuts Direct Tax by $160,000

Concord, N. H., May 7 (AP)—The legislature has adopted a resolution fixing the direct tax of the State for the next two years at $1,000,000 a year, a reduction of $160,000 a year from the $1,160,000 of the preceding two-year period. The directors meet the difference between the budget and regular income.

"LAST CURRY" MEALS TAKE DELICIOUS

It is easy to have things especially nice on short notice.

Just use Gulden's Prepared Mustard as the seasoning. It works wonders—gives magic goodness to simple, last-minute meals. It brings a "French Chef touch" to creamed dishes and makes delicatessen dishes delightfully different.

The blended flavor of mellow mustard seeds and delicate spices doubles the deliciousness of foods without giving an obvious taste. And it is only in Gulden's you get this perfect blend which makes it the complete seasoner.

WOMAN BLAMES
"NATIONS FOR WORLD ILLS"

Washington, May 7 (AP)—"In international intervention" as a remedy for the world's present economic ills is the suggestion of Madame Olivia Rossetti Azzurri of Italy, only woman delegate to the sixth congress of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Surrounded by more than 100 influential looking men who represent the wealth of many countries, this quiet, middle-aged, motherly dressed woman can give almost any of them facts and figures on economic conditions throughout the world.

She is editor of the official financial bulletin of the Italian government and was appointed by the government as delegate to the congress.

LACK OF INTEGRATION
"It seems to me the world is suffering from a lack of international integration," she says. "Each nation is breeding in itself politically, but science and economics are working just the other way. Radio and transportation make us easy interchanges and draw between countries, and when there is a Wall Street crash Berlin, Milan and London are all affected. The world is moving toward integration, but the various governments build themselves. This creates a dual tendency and consequently ill shows."

Lack of confidence, the feminine economist says, is largely responsible for the present depression.

TOO MUCH EVERYTHING
"In time of fire, flood or earthquake, the countries rush out to help each other, and so they should in time of depression. The world is suffering now from too much of everything. Too much money in the banks, too much wheat, too much copper. We have turned a blessing into a curse."

Agreement among agricultural nations, including Soviet Russia, to regulate farm production to consumption was proposed by Alfred Fatter, chairman of the Polish delegation.

Joining Dr. M. L. Russell, former dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, in the belief that the problem that farmers is to readjust production to existing needs, Fatter said it was "obvious that the world-wide agricultural crisis may only be solved by international action based on a world-wide scale."

Such a plan would not be feasible without Soviet participation, he said, adding:

CRISIS BOUND TO COME
"Prospective of the final result which Russia may attain by her planned economic and agricultural activity, the effects of

DEAN DAVIS IS HONORED

Dean T. Lawrence Davis, of the Boston University School of Practical Arts and Letters, presented a birthday cake with 12 candles by Miss Frances Clapp, of Everett. The candles are symbolic of his 12th year as dean of this school, and also the 12th anniversary of the founding of the school. Dean Davis is shown receiving the cake from Miss Clapp. (Staff photo.)

MOTHER FIGHTS
TO SAVE SON
FROM CHAIR

Valparaiso, Ind., May 7 (INS)—While attorneys continued today in their slow process of trying to pick a jury for Virgil Kirkland's second murder trial, a drama was being enacted between a mother fighting desperately to save her son from the electric chair and a father fighting to "rectify his dead daughter's name."

Mrs. Myrtle Kirkland was searching for two girl friends of Arlene Draves, said to have attended a party several months before the fatal one in which Arlene died and at which Kirkland is accused of killing her.

Charles Draves, father of Arlene, who follows every move of the defense, branded the defense's attempt to show that Arlene's conduct at previous parties was unethical as "more efforts to further blacken the name of my daughter."

"I know two of the young people who attended the party with my daughter," he said. "I expect to talk with the others who were at the party and I know they will tell the truth and show that three accusations made against my daughter are untrue."

Lloyd Doyle, manager of Gulchist's 1931 baseball team, today announced the complete lineup of his team. Sam Bent, assistant buyer in the basement store, is captain; Nick Cardinelli, men's clothing department, catcher; John Huskley, pitcher; James Prendergast, basement men's clothing, second base; Mike Clancy, furniture warehouse, first base; Tom Glendon, charge adjuster, center field; and Lloyd Doyle, right field.

Substitute players include "Fuzz" Foster, receiving department; Walter Thues, shoe repair; Robert Bunn, men's furnishings; Marty Walsh, rug; Joseph Komde, stock; and Chesley Barry, assistant buyer yard goods.

MODEL CAMP DISPLAYED

A miniature model of the W. W. G. A. Camp Winnemacnet at Martha's Vineyard, made by girls of the "Y," is on display in the window at Wright & Ditson's this week, sponsored by Miss Eleanor Edwards, in charge of the girls' camp department of that store.

KEEP KISSABLE

... WITH OLD GOLDS

OLD GOLDS were created to give you THROAT-EASE... as well as a more delightful tasting cigarette. But the makers also considered your breath, your lips, your teeth, as well as your THROAT.

They created a pure-tobacco cigarette... free of coriander and other greasy artificial flavorings* that burn into clinging, staining, breath-tainting vapors.

To avoid unpleasant aftermaths, smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. Their clean, sun-ripened, natural-flavored tobaccos will be like honey to your THROAT. And they leave no objectionable odors either on your breath or clothing, or in the room.

HERE'S THE PROOF*

Open up a pack of OLD GOLDS and smell the tobacco. Do this with any other cigarette. Judge for yourself which has the natural, pleasant, all-tobacco aroma. It's a favor to your family and friends, as well as to yourself, to smoke NATURAL-FLAVORED, pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

Third Leg of Flight

Nomuro, Japan, May 7 (AP)—Forced by stormy weather to return to this port after taking off today for Mauritius Bay, in the Kuriles, Self Yoshikura, Japanese air, awaited kindlier skies to continue the third leg of his flight to San Francisco.

Russell said no country would attempt to limit its exports unless the same restrictions were applied by others.

BUTLER HAITI CASE SETTLED, SAYS TIMSON

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Secretary Timson announced today that the vote of Minister Billewade of Haiti was considered by the State Department to end satisfactorily the incident caused by the protest of Maj.-Gen. Bromley D. Butler of the Marine Corps against remarks about him made by the minister.

The secretary has informed Secretary Adams that he considers the minister's explanation of the remarks attributed to him in an interview satisfactorily closed the matter.

The minister in the interview published in the Washington Herald was alleged to have claimed that Port au Prince, for the capture of which Butler was awarded a congressional medal of honor, was nonexistent.

In his note to the department in response to a request for an explanation, the minister said he had not attempted to reflect on the general, but had merely said he did not know of the existence of the port.

FAMILY PARTY AT MOXIELAND

They're shining up the knocker on the big front door out in Moxieland in Roxbury, and there'll be welcome on the corner for each of the 40 scores and more guests at the Family Party the Moxie Associates are giving under their vine and fig tree, Friday evening.

Born through the Moxie plant, that's a washed potato with scalding water every night. Even the white-labeled associates look as if someone had just taken off their turtleneck paper wrappings. You understand why they fairly purr with excitement—and also their anxiety to Frank Archer—when you see the attractive working conditions of the sun-drenched rooms, with arched stairs and lily, surrounding garden with the Jolly Rove Moxie house occupying the place of honor in the big parking space.

Then there's Arthur Penney, 27 years with the Moxie Co., official superintendent, but actually confidential friend to all the Moxie men. They say he brews a mean cup of coffee up in the men's bunk and rest room.

The Moxie club have a huge sunny rest room with modern equipment in everything. Which brings us to a bright star in the Moxie constellation—gold-haired

The Family Party will be in the big bottling room, and after the guests have seen all the wonders around they'll settle down to a bang-up good time, dancing to Billy Boyce's Coney-Island orchestra and helping Lacy away the refreshment.

HUSBAND SLAIN IN GUN DUEL OVER WIFE

Detroit, May 7 (AP)—Maynard R. Reaser, 32, of Dayton, O., was killed, and Albert Payne, 27, of Corvallis, Ky., wounded late last night when, police say, they "shot it out" over attentions Reaser accused Payne of paying Mrs. Reaser.

The Peasers had been separated for several months. Payne told police he was seated beside Mrs. Reaser on a sofa in the home where she was rooming when Reaser entered and fired. Payne said he ran upstairs, got a pistol, and emptied it at Reaser, who had followed him. Reaser had accused him of alienating the affections of his wife, Payne said, and had threatened to kill him on sight.

Because of a letter found on Reaser, Mrs. Reaser was held by police. The letter, signed "Marie," "Reaser's first name, said, 'Somebody else do it. You won't get by. I'm nearly crazy and all I can see is him.'"

Reaser's first name, said, "Somebody else do it. You won't get by. I'm nearly crazy and all I can see is him."

STRIKE THREAT BY MILLION

London, May 7 (AP)—Labor disputes in the building trade may result in a strike of 1,000,000 men unless an agreement is reached by tomorrow concerning extension of the working week from 47 to 48 hours and a reduction in the pay scale for piece work and overtime. Representatives of 40 unions involved have agreed in modification of the piece work reduction, but they are holding out for an additional hour's work a week.

"I am so glad to say that I don't very much if the man who wrote the article constructed the headlines but the statement that the Governor plans a tax on cigarettes is completely false."

ELLY ATTACK ON G. O. P. MAKES TONGUES WAG

Legislative tongues were wagging today in spirited discussion of Governor Ely's speech at Worcester last night in which he put the problem of financing old age pensions squarely up to the Republican alone.

The Republican party passed the pension law, boasted about it during the last campaign and now is trying to evade the responsibility of apportioning taxes to provide the necessary funds, the Governor declared.

At the same time he denied he had placed himself on record in favor of a cigarette tax to finance the measure and dealt severely with a morning newspaper which had made this statement and which he referred to as a Republican organ.

Nearly every phase of the Governor's address, which was before the Worcester Democratic Club, was a part in the sides of the opposite party and drew forth much comment about the State House today.

"I am convinced," Governor Ely said, "that unless the Democratic members of the Legislature unite on the method of taxation, they will be providing and it will become imperative to postpone the operation of this act."

This Chimney Sitter Out of Luck in Hunger Strike

Tokio, May 7 (AP)—A chimney sitter who ascended a smokestack at the Japan Dyeing and Weaving works here, nearly a week ago and announced he would not come down until the employers had won their hunger strike, is not meeting with the success a contemporary had.

Kiyoshi Tanaka recently won a strike because a Japanese custom forbids a subject to take a position higher than that of the employer.

When word spread that the employer would meet where Tanaka was sitting the company granted the strikers' demands in order to get Tanaka down before the ruler appeared.

At 7 o'clock tonight the dye works sifter had been up 150 hours, but there was no sign of the strike's end. About 10 strikers remain in a warehouse, eating only bean soup.

British Bayonets Cut to 9 Inches

London, May 7—British Tommies of the future will carry bayonets but also inches long, as compared with the present ones 20 inches. The shorter bayonet and the adoption of the "percussion" rifle crisscross will reduce the weight of the field pack by about half a pound.

LABOR IS WRONG ON BEER, SAYS DRY LEAGUE

Washington, May 7 (AP)—The anti-Saloon League declared in a statement today "the position of the American Federation of Labor relative to the return of beer is unsound in three respects."

"The legalization of beer," the statement said, "would instantly result in a sharp decrease in the purchase of other commodities thereby promptly throwing from 3 to 10 times more out of employment than the number to whom employment might be given by beer."

"Beer would not increase the demand for grain and thus help the farmer," Government records show that the amount of grain used by all the distilleries and breweries for all purposes during 1929, the last normal year, was 2,500,000,000 pounds less than the increased consumption of grain used as stock feed to produce the 115 pounds extra milk per capita consumed annually under prohibition.

"Beer would not promote temperance," the old days while whiskey places in Chicago were willing a quart of beer for a shot of the consuming of white."

50 OVERCOME IN 7 MILLION FIRE IN BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Fire today destroyed the 10th field artillery barracks here, causing damage estimated by Capt. William Spedell, regimental supply officer, at more than $700,000. A church also was destroyed with an estimated loss of $50,000, and several dwellings in the area were damaged.

Firemen were overcomen in fighting the flames which were fanned by a stiff wind off Lake Erie. All but two were discharged from hospital after treatment. A heavy rainfall aided the fighters in bringing the flames under control in $30 m.

In estimating the loss Spedell said his figures were based on an appraisal made three years ago. He placed the value of the army alone at $1,000,000, and of the equipment at $400,000. He said little equipment was saved and the army would be a total loss.

The barracks, a four-story stone structure, occupied one of the high cat points of land in the city and the wind scattered brands over a wide area, causing many incipient blazes.

Most serious were those that destroyed the American-Brandenburg church, four blocks distant, and damaged dwellings in that area.

The army fire origin has not yet been determined. Minute men of a Legion post were drilling when a D. Marvin, a city fireman of duty and a member of the Minute Men, saw smoke coming out of cracks in the floor and sounded the alarm.

$450,000 GEM THEFT FOILED

(New York, May 7 (AP)—A book-keeper's disregard of pistols in the hands of three hoodlums saved some valued at $450,000 in the 11th floor office of Samuel Laskovsky, diamond importer, today.

The robbers, apparently familiar with the layout of the building at 14 West 47th st., entered the office shortly after noon and ordered the bookkeeper, Samuel Sigel, to give them the diamonds and other valuable gems.

Sigel jumped back and touched a signal sounding an alarm that brought several policemen to the building within a few moments.

Two of the men escaped by running through an exterior to the building building. The third man, killed in hand, was heard afterwards of several blocks.

Air Beacon Urged for Bellevue Hill

Erection of an aviation beacon on Bellevue Hill, Boston, to light the city, was urged at a hearing today before the House and means committee by Representative Harold Duffie and George A. Gilman of Boston and Capt. Robert L. O'Brien, supervisor of aviation.

The Metropolitan District Commission would be directed to construct and maintain the light. Cost of installation was estimated at between $100 and $150 and the maintenance about $75 a year.

$14,100,000 TO GRAPE GROWERS

San Francisco, May 7 (AP)—The California grape growers had the approval of the California grape growers' board of the federal farm board today.

The program, approved by the House of Representatives, calls for a farm board loan of $14,100,000 for California's $300,000,000 grape and raisin industry.

It includes withdrawal of the 1930 carryover of raising on Oct. 1 from competition with the 1931 crop; formation of a surplus pool for 1931 raisins produced in excess of market requirements before the 1932 crop is harvested and purchase of 100,000 tons of fresh grapes for conversion into by-products by the industry.

QUICK DIVORCES HIT RENO TRADE

Reno, Nev., May 7 (INS)—Although Nevada's six week divorce law improved business for the lawyers, its effect on business conditions in general in the state is slight, according to opinions expressed today by many Reno merchants and bankers.

Formerly, when three months residence was necessary for those applying for a decree, the divorcees contributed generously to the revenue from houses and apartments. Reno residents said. Now, with the divorce mill geared to high speed, these profits have diminished, according to the land-lords.

Tradesmen complained against the six week law in a similar vein.

Lords Reject Farm Bill of McDonald

London May 7 (AP)—The House of Lords, 52 to 31, today rejected the government's agricultural land utilization bill approved by the House of Commons. Political observers believe the action will cause avert bitterness between the two houses.

We might be wrong, but it seemed to us that the bill looked better—sort of lashed—but maybe it was just rusted from its stay in the surgical company's bed.

We still think, however, that the Better Business Bureau had something to say about all of these goings-on, because it (the baby) no longer crawls about vaguely on the floor, but now occupies a few feet off the floor, in front of the radio. And there is no sign of a creditous public that a child can operate it.

venting much slaughter in the World War... It's a dictionary of French and English words, if you please, and her story is that when the U. S. soldiers went across, they couldn't speak any French and the French soldiers thought they were talking some sort of gibberish and they slaughtered them... Now THERE'S A World War story that never saw the light of day before, I'll bet. And shouldn't now, see you?

At the Elizabeth Peabody House rendition of "Tolstoy" last night, an old lady sitting beside us was heard to ask her companion if the players were all Ukrainians. We couldn't imagine why she even thought any of them might be Ukrainians until we noticed on the program that an exhibition of Ukrainian handicrafts was in progress in another part of the building. And the actors DID wear Ukrainian costumes.

Thank you, ladies. Thank you!

Esso does MORE than increase your POWER

Note how far superior to all other premium fuels Esso's knock-rating is. These results obtained with the Midgley Bouncing Pin Machine, developed by General Motors and accepted and used by the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation. Esso will show the same superiority with any other testing system, even those ranking some fuels at "zero." Samples here picked at random from roadside pumps March 16, 1931.

BECAUSE Esso permits the modern motor to develop so much more power, new users sometimes overlook the other important advantages of this extraordinary new-type fuel.

Here they are... Bear them in mind when you buy gasoline!

QUICKER STARTING

Quick starting depends upon the amount of gasoline vaporized at the low temperatures. Tests at the 158° point show approximately 20% greater vaporization with Esso than with the average of the 11 other leading premium fuels.

SAVES YOUR MOTOR

Every time your engine knocks (even though you do not hear it) you do more than lose power.

You get the hardest kind of engine wear. Esso saves your motor by giving it the benefit of the finest of all knock-ratings.

NO CRANKCASE DILUTION

When gasoline is not completely vaporized, it seeps into the crankcase, diluting lubricants. Esso's "final boiling point" or "end point" is equalled by only two other Ethyl motor fuels. This means that it completely vaporizes at temperatures at which most other fuels are still partly liquid. Vitrally affects the amount you spend on repairs.

COSTS NO MORE PER MILE

Esso, per gallon, costs slightly more than ordinary non-Ethyl fuels. But most former users of these fuels report that Esso gives greater mileage, and with its reduction of repair expenses, costs no more per mile per year.

ADD THESE ADVANTAGES

to the fact that in many motors Esso develops as much as 20% more power than ordinary gasoline—and you realize why its success has been so overwhelming both here and abroad. Make a ten-day test of Esso in your own car.

Triumph for Fiedler at Opening

By MOSES SMITH

A review of the opening of the pop concert at Symphony Hall without some mention of the weather and of spring frocks and of a young man and young woman's fancy would be unthinkable. No reviewer has ever done it, and cannot betray my tribe by attempting it.

The weather, then, was fine. The company was fine, a crowded hall of company, in happy spirits and in party clothes (it is also a hallowed tradition to refer to the gay women's frocks). How much the singer and orchestra contributed to the gaiety is unmeasurable. But it is pleasant to sit and sip to one's heart's content and neighbor's discomfort.

There was also a program of music for what would a concert be like without music? "Dispersal" this music was an orchestra on stage, containing most of the Boston Symphony group. Arthur Fiedler, who brought the Pops back to their former popularity last year, was on hand for the beginning of his second season. His position in the affections of his audience was unquestionable as one listened to his applause greeting him when he first came on stage, or after each of the numbers had been played.

Much of Fiedler's success is traceable to personal popularity, an engaging manner, a personality adapted to showmanship. But much of it, too, is due to his judgment in balancing programs to meet the likes of a varied audience. Yesterday's program was more or less typical. There was the "March of the Toys" for spirited and brilliant beginning; the romantic (and familiar) "Overture to Wagner's 'Tristan'; a charming Minuet by Brahms; and a "Pavane" from "Carmen" for the operatically-minded.

Then, snatched of Strauss, Waltzes, via the Viennese Kommand, the Ländlerische Air in an arrangement by Sir Hamilton, that did not do violence to sentiment, with the violin solo expertly played by Julius Theodorowicz; "Les Preludes" by Liszt, the "heaviest" piece on the program.

George Garshwin poked his head into this circle with the sophisticated (and slightly labored) jazz of "Old Crazy." The following encore, the waltz from "Zerk."

BETTY AGAIN

Hersen in "Takt" was so well received that it had to be repeated. A Cards from Crossman's "Ghost of the Warrior" and Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries" brought up the rear.

Mr. Fiedler has gained commendably in authority in the year since he took charge of Pops. His back is cleverer and more inclusive—forgive a reviewer for noticing such things at a Pop concert—he seems more certain in his knowledge of how he would like to have the music played, and more confident of his ability to get the men to play it as he wants it. His self-consciousness has for the most part gone, and he is now making music rather than reading it.

He is the first Pop conductor in a long while who can get his orchestra to transmit his own familiar spirit. In Viennese music he is very much at home; he has secured waits was played with notable snap. For these things alone an audience, particularly an American audience on a spring evening, would be grateful. The enthusiasm of last night's crowd is probably indicative of an even more successful Pops season than Fiedler's first.

OIL GUSHER FIRE EXTINGUISHED BY EXPLOSION

Gladeswater, Tex., May 7 (AP)—Destruction of a 200-pound charge of nitroglycerine has blown out the flame of an oil gusher which fatally burned nine men in an explosion Tuesday night a week ago.

Harry Kinley, Tulsa (Okla.) explosive expert, set off the blast at the mouth of the shaft by electricity last night.

The explosion was heard 20 miles away in Longview, Tex. A yellow umbrella-shaped blaze was blown upward for 200 feet. The next instant there was darkness. The lease of a new well camera was shattered.

M. T. (Lone Wolf) Conallus, Texas Ranger sergeant, headed a guard about the well. Gas hung over the scene, sending only a space to kill another crew of workmen. Carrying of matches within a mile of the well was forbidden, and automobiles were parked far away.

Today the crew prepared to slide a new derrick over the gusher, still spouting oil 50 feet into the air from the crater left by the nitroglycerine explosion.

Bible Is Still the World's Best Seller

London, May 7 (AP)—The first "it" remains its place as the world's best seller," according to a statement published by the British Bible Society that 12,000,000 copies of the volume were issued during the past year.

Vicount Haultham cited this as proof that religious feeling was not on the wane.

Paris Service for Mrs. Whitelaw Reid

Paris, May 7 (AP)—Paris services were held today at the American Episcopal Cathedral for Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, who died a week ago at Cap Ferret.

Ambassador and Mrs. Walter E. Edge, and Lord Tyrrell, the British ambassador, were among the distinguished personages who attended. The body is to be sent home for burial.

CATHOLICS IN SPAIN TO VOTE FOR 'RIGHTS'

Madrid, May 7 (AP)—Archbishop Pedro Segura's pastoral letter urging Catholics to participate in the coming election for a constituent Parliament aroused considerable discussion today in religious and political quarters.

The archbishop, Spain's highest ecclesiastic authority, said in his letter from Toledo yesterday that Catholics should elect deputies who will defend and guarantee the rights of the church, which he described as being in "very grave" position under the republican government.

Catholicism, he observed, interpreted his message as a defense of the church's right rather than an affront to the regime as seen by some officials. He was urging the election of all representatives who would protect Catholicism. It was said, rather than distinguishing between the candidates of any one party.

Marcelino Domingo, minister of public instruction, issued a statement saying the letter did not appear to be in accord with ecclesiastical opinion in other countries where republics have been established in place of monarchies.

"I cannot agree with the cardinal's position," he said.

Bust of Edison Is Unveiled at Munich

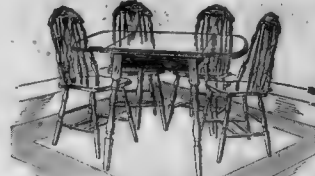

Munich, Bavaria, May 7 (AP)—A marble bust of Thomas A. Edison was unveiled today in the Deutsches Museum Hall of Fame beside that of Werner von Siemens, Germany's electrical pioneer.

H. H. Barnes, New York engineer, attended for the Edison Process Society and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers who together donated the bust. He read a eulogy on the life of Edison.

The bust, which might be promoted by electrical science.

MAYOR CURLEY IS OFF TODAY FOR EUROPE

Mayor Curley, his daughter Mary, his son-in-law, and City Treasurer Edmund L. Nolan, leave Back Bay station this afternoon on the first leg of their voyage to Europe.

Tomorrow afternoon the party will board the S. S. France of the French line for the ocean trip to Plymouth, England. Shortly before embarking, the Mayor will confer with officials of the transatlantic line regarding a trip to Germany next year.

Conferences with the heads of nearly all city departments were held by the Mayor before his departure. His last official act of the day was the appointment of Attorney John L. Hall of the firm of Chase, Hall & Stuart, as trustee of the Boston Public Library.

Before boarding the train the Mayor called on Mrs. William Lowell Sullivan, who is ill at her Beacon Hill home.

Arriving in Plymouth, Mayor Curley will deliver an address on the Puritan Pilgrims, and will then visit London, Dublin, Ireland, will next be visited at where the Mayor will be accompanied by the Mayor and his party. A telegram received yesterday from Michael MacWhite, minister plenipotentiary of the Irish Free State at Washington, promised a very hearty welcome in the Irish capital.

From Dublin, the party will go on to Galway, in the vicinity of which Mayor Curley's father and mother were born. The Arran Islands, off the coast of Galway, will next be visited, and then the return through Dublin and London to Paris.

A reception by the President of France, and a tour of the principal cities of that country will be followed with a trip to Rome, where the Mayor will be received by Premier Mussolini. Italy will be left on June 10, and the Mayor will return to his office in City Hall on June 16.

RICH MAN FACES AUTO CHARGE

Robert A. Nordbrook, wealthy Boston real estate operator, was arraigned in Peabody court today on a charge of drunkenness after the automobile which he was driving narrowly escaped collision with a police patrol car near the Salem Peabody line.

Accompanied by him was a friend, John Spire of Dorchester, taken into custody at the wheel of another car as he stopped to argue with officers over Nordbrook's alleged drunkenness. Spire gave his occupation as an architect.

Both cases were continued until May 13. According to the Salem police, Nordbrook's car, suggested near the police car parked on the road while the officers were investigating another case.

The two men, police said, made libelous statements of drunkenness when arrested.

Two only had three drinks, Nordbrook's officers said at 80 Broad st., and he makes his residence in Hammondwood rd., Chestnut Hill.

School Committee of Seven Favored

The Executive Committee of the City School Committee reported a bill to enlarge Boston school committee from five to seven members, all to serve without compensation.

Setting out to ask her why so merry a young lady who has attained to so much star and gold-dust is thinking about dying at all, and why, thinking of it, she dears all of her films to be no more when Mary, little Mary who is likely to always be a living legend, is also no more. Along, remember, with the rest of us! Thinking that perhaps the reason why she does not think it a good idea to leave her films to live and be shown to other generations, is a sentimental and romantic turn to Mary's mind; that perhaps she is suffering from the very natural ailment that is often a reaction that overtakes those who begin careers well past pink babies and realize their heights while very young.

But I was wrong. Little Mary says "NO" That isn't the reason—and I'll be telling you later. Thinking of all the young girls and old—not to speak of the gentlemen—who would love to be going along with me. They would like to know exactly what she says, how she speaks, what she wears, and how she looks. Out of pictures. Thinking "Miss Nellie, be accurate; restrain your flights of bird-of-paradise-colored words at the level of the truth; colored words out, no words are too sweetly-colored to express the character, the womanliness, the true beauty of this famous little person."

The writer is met, thirty floors above Central Park, by a diminutive vision in vivid pale blue velvet, outlined in white head embroidery. (This for the girls!) Golden hair, hazel eyes, big as pansies and as beautiful as the angels. Two words paint her picture. Beautiful and KIND. A tiny model of a woman's body. A head highly intelligent, interesting in its bone formation. Absolute lack of affectation. Simple, direct. Eagerness to please. Earnestness and humor. I think a physiognomist would be interested in the mechanics of her face. The broad forehead. The high cheekbones.

Asking her, "Why do you want to destroy all of your films so that none of them may be shown after your death. People will differ where you are, but they will agree that you were a great actress and a great human being. I have been seeing my old films, and the parts that once seemed charming and beautiful are only in our memory—NOT IN THE FILM. Even thirty years from now they will be ridiculous. The artist and the sculptor, even the craftsmen, works in something not subject to change. The medium of pictures is so subject to change; is of so changeable a medium, that it is very much doubted whether we are artists at all. We work in a mechanical material. I might as well write on water. Just around the corner is the colored, and the stereoscopic film. The pictures we are making and have made will offend two senses of the coming generations, the visual and the auditory sense, unbelievably. So both, now to speak of the human angle, for MY sake, and the sake of coming generations, I don't want my pictures to be seen after my death. Even now the old ones are not in demand."

You see this little Mary is an honest, down-to-earth, morally sturdy little woman. It showed character to say some of this, and to face and see for herself her old pictures and turn critic of them.

Asking her why she thinks upon her passing on at all. "Because," very soberly, "I believe in having my house in order. You know when I have earned my ticket back home—when I do, you know—I must have everything right with my people who are left. You know I'm a wreck—I'm always in the mud of next building for various and sundry—or is it a swallow—or is it just a sparrow? A sparrow is a working person like me. My poor days are always near me, you know. My first money was eight dollars—that did I buy with it—oh, heavens, coal, or paid the rent, I'm sure! Maybe I'm being just true to myself that has always been able to see both the dark and bright side of a thing right while it was at its brightest, when I prepare my will. Since I was five I have had a habit of going up in mental balloons where I can see the whole situation, and then picking out the things that MAY happen. I say OHHHHH—look at that—what a THAT, isn't that terrible!"

Mary Pickford recently disliked God for many years because He let her Mother work. She speaks tenderly of her mother; thinks children who do not respect and love their parents blasphemous. Mary Pickford is a very beautiful girl for many years because He let her Mother work. She speaks tenderly of her mother; thinks children who do not respect and love their parents blasphemous.

She loves clothes, beautiful clothes, but sometimes forgets she has them—being busy. Once she spoke for the Motion Picture Relief Fund—dressed up, went to the opera, and all, in the right slipper on the left foot and the left on the right! The hard worker! Too busy to get her clothes on right! She loves China and the Chinese. She loves work. Music. She washes all the world would think GOOD and HAPPY thoughts for her marriage, instead of bad ones. She lives a deeply spiritual life, understands and loves below the surface.

I have always had a deep respect for the public eye, and came home strangely weary in her little feet. She feared they were growing larger, and tanning her little elbows on her knees, studied them. There, in horror, she saw, the right slipper on the left foot and the left on the right! The hard worker! Too busy to get her clothes on right! She loves China and the Chinese. She loves work. Music. She washes all the world would think GOOD and HAPPY thoughts for her marriage, instead of bad ones. She lives a deeply spiritual life, understands and loves below the surface.

She is downright sincere, delighted with the world, has even learned to like those who "don't like her" (whatever they might be!) She is generous, a born little mother, heartily loving, spiritual, practical, humorous, honest, with a beautiful little face that fairly shines with kindness.

She's what I call, besides a beauty—a great little soul!

DIVORCE HOLDS AFTER DEATH, COURT SAYS

In spite of the fact that his divorced wife died the day after the divorce became absolute, Victor H. Pratt of Worcester was informed today in a decision by Judge George A. Sanderson of Superior Court that he cannot carry before the end of the two-year probate period.

Pratt, whose wife divorced him in July, 1928, had sought for more than a year to compel City Clerk Malcolm C. Mudge, to grant him a license in reman. His former wife died in 1929.

Today's decision was the result of an appeal to the Supreme Court for a mandamus to compel Mudge to issue the license.

The court upheld Mudge's interpretation of the statute that the "surviving party in a divorce suit must wait the expiration of the probationary period even if the other party died."

New York May 7.—The stock market in Wall St. was heavy during much of another quiet session today, but calmed under the influence of short covering in the last few minutes.

Permanent strength of the bond market was an encouraging development, and in stocks, Westcott was a strong spot throughout the day, rising more than 3 points to a new 51 1/2 high.

STOCKS IN NEAR CLOSE OF TRADING

U. S. Steel and American Can were depressed about 2 and 3 points to new low levels, but retained their places to about a point each in the late dealings.

Losers of 2 to 3 points in North American, American Telephone and Telegraph, and Western Union were largely recovered.

Columbia Gas and Eastman were spot sellers off about 3 and 4 points, but selling to recover slightly.

Canadian Pacific fell 1 1/2 points in response to a dividend cut. Paramount was under considerable pressure, in expectation of a dividend action vote.

Radio chief, Franchot, higher. Rates were 1 7/8 to 2 1/8. The electric line was about steady.

MONEY ABUNDANT

The money market has again been quiet, with a few scattered transactions. The forward rate of exchange has been steady, with a few scattered transactions.

The continued unsettledness of the bond market has been revived by banking circles as a serious deterrent to business recovery.

The numerous offerings of short term government securities, including the large U. S. Treasury deficit, have been taking up much of the surplus of funds.

It is believed that numerous construction projects which might provide considerable employment are being held up pending a better bond market.

RECOUNT RATE IS CUT

New York, May 7.—The New York Reserve Bank today reduced the discount rate from 3 to 2 1/2 per cent.

This is the lowest in the history of the reserve system. It is also lower than any rate in the history of any central bank in the world.

The reduction had been expected, with the expectation that it would stimulate the business recovery.

The numerous offerings of short term government securities, including the large U. S. Treasury deficit, have been taking up much of the surplus of funds.

Bond Market Has Advance Prices

New York, May 7.—Generally higher prices characterized the bond market today, with a few scattered transactions.

The numerous offerings of short term government securities, including the large U. S. Treasury deficit, have been taking up much of the surplus of funds.

Kress April Sales Display Increase

New York, April 7 (AP).—April sales of S. H. Kress & Co. were $1,740,000, an increase of 2 1/2 per cent over $1,680,000 reported for April, 1930. Sales for the first four months of this year aggregated $1,972,500, an increase of 3 1/2 per cent over $1,880,000 reported for the corresponding period of 1930.

Cotton Higher in New York Market

New York, May 7 (AP).—Cotton today closed 2 to 3 points higher. The market was active, with a few scattered transactions.

Member of Coffee Exchange Expelled

New York, May 7 (AP).—Board of managers of the New York Coffee Exchange today expelled a member, Paul A. Gaby, from membership in the exchange, effective immediately.

Retail Sales of Buick Are Larger

Detroit, May 7.—Retail sales of Buick Motor in April totaled 11,018 units, against 9,013 in March, an increase of 23 per cent.

MRS. PROHIBITORY DOWNSTOWN MRS. BAKER IN W. G. A. PLAY

MISTER MALONEY'S NEXT OPPONENT AS JENKINS SEES HIM

FANNING

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

Pupil Tie Teacher? Sharkey Says "Yes." Orates on Schaaf.

"Flowers for Jim." Clarence Is a Hero. Dempsey Off "Strio."

Too Much Hugging and Necking in Cleveland

Maloney was knocked by our sharky man for a couple of loops; the same thing Jack thinks Schaaf can—But Jack, we have our doubts.

JACK SHARKEY twice knocked Jim Maloney for a couple of fishing shacks on Cape Cod. Now Jack has gone and secured his protégé, Ernie Schaaf, on Shamus. The Squire thinks his big blond can punch Dan Carroll's meal ticket full of holes. "Ernie will knock the Mick out of his brogue," says Jack. "He'll put him to sleep for a week. Maloney's gang better be ordering flowers." Tut! Tut! Jack, me lad! Those are brave, brave words. Dunna ye say the same of Tammie Loughran? Descending into plain English, what did Tommy do to Ernie? For particulars we refer you to Burns Jenkins' cartoon over there on the sports page somewhere East of Sun.

WELL, YOU old Red Dog, Tommy told Ernie into bowline knots and fishermen's nitches. Ernie never thought there were as many left Jack in the world. Jack, you knocked Loughran from under his corbels in jig time and you thought Ernie could do it, too. Now just because you rocked Shamus into the arms of Morpheus you think Ernie can do the same thing. Perhaps he can. But to us it looks as if Ernie will have to think quicker and punch a durned sight faster than he did the last time we saw your big blond inside the hempen square.

WHEN the foregoing sentiments were relayed to the Squire at his manor house in Chestnut Hill he quipped what row we would be sitting on the garden on May 28. We asked him what that had to do with the question, and he replied:

"I wanted to know just what you are going to sit on, for I'll have Schaaf knock Maloney right into the lake!"

PLUCK! Toss! Isn't the Squire a modest little buttercup? "The Thumping Tied of Chestnut Hill" fits him like my lady's slipper.

He Robins tied him long ago

And put him up for sale.

Reluctant time had laid him low

And left him weak and frail.

The Phillies paid him for a while

And traded him away.

They told him with a sorry smile

That he had even his day.

The Cards achieved a hold on him

But not for very long.

They figured he had lost his vim

And sold him for a song.

So Clarence Mitchell got the air

And found the going tough.

Until one day he chanced to fare

By Old Mac Cogan's Bunk.

And now he works for Jack Mc-Graw.

Add labors long and hard:

The youngest guy you ever saw

In any hawall yard.

GEORGE F. PHAIR.

MITCHELL.

WHEN Clarence Mitchell, 43 years young, rung up his fourth straight victory of the season the other day George Phair rattled off the foregoing verses. Mitchell was worth it. The graying veteran and the youthful Wes Ferrell shared the pitching honors of the major leagues. Way back in 1909 Mitchell broke in with his home town of Franklin in the Nebraska League. Ever since then—23 years—Clarence has been spinning over his shoulder. That he can spin 'em over with all the speed and cunning of yore is demonstrated by the fact he has won 15 straight games for McGraw four this season and ten last year.

Just a year ago Mitchell was the only Southern pitcher to be named and regarded him as the savior of his first base coach, W. C. C. McGraw. McGraw had to see Clarence on the field. He imported him to New York. Mitchell got the idea McGraw had taken him as a relief pitcher. But McGraw ordered:

"You're going to be there and start games. You've got a lot of pitching left in you. Besides, you have what 90 per cent of the twiflers haven't—a wise old brain. If you can't do anything else, you're going to out-think the batters."

And Clarence has proceeded to out-think 'em. He has out-thought 'em to the tune of 14 straight victories.

And maybe that's coming youth, Wes Ferrell, drawings of whom cartoonist Thomas obligingly sketched for the Boston Evening American yesterday, isn't his first 'em over. The youngster turned in the first major league no-hit game of the season, and even Billy Evans, Cleveland manager, owns up he is getting the highest paid young pitcher in baseball dirt cheap.

BASEBALL experts have labelled Ferrell the "Second Matty." The youngster reminds one of Big Six in more ways than one. Christopher Markham was at the peak of his career down $10,000. Cleveland is reported paying Ferrell $15,000 this year. Baseball selectors are going to be big buyers of "Daddy Vances." The Dazzler draws down $25,000. Young Matty Ferrell, 23 years old, is likely to be bagging twice that sum before he quits—but probably not from Cleveland.

CANT TELL yet whether the Schmeling-Ribbing passage at arms really has struck a snag as far as the Cleveland Stadium is concerned or whether Mattie Carry of the well-known Madison Square Garden and Miler Dan Morgan, Cleveland city manager, are baiting publicity books.

Jack Dempsey isn't going to attend the Schmeling-Striking affair. It seems that Jack's new flame, just like his old, Estelle Taylor, objects to Dempsey coming to America where they do a lot of hugging and necking.

Stirling clubs like a gold digger and hugs like a June bride. Or maybe we should say a May bride. And King Bipe.

Six Favorites Hit Dust at Jamaica

The followers of improving the broad took on the club yesterday at the Jamaica course. Six favorites—count 'em—fell by the wayside, and carried thousands of dollars with them. The cries of the wounded

EVERY TIME TOMMY TAPPED HIM (ANY) COUNTED 28 TO 6 FOR LOUGHAN IN THE FIFTH. SCHAFF SEEMED SO SURPRISED HE FORGOT WHAT SHARKEY TOLD HIM TO DO NEXT!

By BILL GRIMES

Although Southern practically assured itself of the W. G. A. team championship by defeating Western today at Belmont Springs 3 to 1, Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., lost her first match in three seasons when she went down to defeat before Mrs. Henri F. Prunard, Jr.

Strangely enough, Mrs. Baker was the only Southern loser, the W. G. A. leaders rolling up eight points and winning. With the exception of one match, everyone went at least 17 holes.

While Southern was swamping Western at Belmont, Midland was furnishing the surprise of the day at the Commonwealth Country Club by defeating Northern 5 and 4.

Midland's victory practically eliminated Northern from the race for second place with Central trailing two matches with only three to play, while Midland moved up to fourth place from last place to fourth place with Eastern and Western.

Central came through with another victory, first in three stars, by defeating Eastern 6 to 3, at the Sandy River Country Club.

Fitchburg Winner

Fitchburg, May 7.—Fitchburg high school baseball team defeated Worcester north high school team at Crocker Field by a score of 5 to 1.

HORACE MILTON LEBENBEE

Red Sox pitcher.

Born, Charlestown, Tenn., Sept. 23, 1903.

Height, 5 feet, 10 inches.

Weight, 170 pounds.

Throws and bats right-handed.

Broke in with Boston in the Cotton States League in 1924. Was purchased by Monahan at the close of that season and farmed out to Triple in the Tri-State League in 1925.

Brought back to Memphis in 1926 and after winning 17 and losing 9, he was sold to Washington.

Won 18 and lost 9 in '27. His first season with the Senators, but was sent off to a poor start the following year and was farmed out to Minneapolis.

The Red Sox got him just before the start of the '29 campaign in the deal which sent Rube Miller to Washington. He reported here with a sure arm and spent most of that year in Pittsfield.

Last season he returned to the Sox in fine shape and won 16 while losing 17 games.

In four seasons in the majors he has won 36 and lost 32.

He is married and still resides in Clarksville, Tenn.

IN THE LATER ROUNDS WHEN ERNIE'S 200 LBS. BECAME TO LAND, LOUGHAN ALWAYS LEFT THE GROUND—BUT IT WAS TOO LATE.

They might come out and win the pennant. Finner things have happened.

Don Howley would have to give his Red Sox machine gun to play with. They've won only two games thus far.

If McKechnie's theory is correct, then the Browns must be as low as a batch of kittens.

And the Robins must be a bunch of backslappers.

Still, we haven't noticed the Cards or the Athletics sporting black eyes, or cauliflower ears.

Maybe they just know how to play baseball.

Which, after all, is enough for baseball players to know.

Wages and the Plain Duty of Employers

Progressive employers are becoming increasingly aware of their responsibility toward workers during periods of intense depression.

This is a new and hopeful tendency in the United States. Until comparatively recently, activities in this direction were negligible.

Even today, less enlightened employers, instead of uttering questionable generalities about the desirability of deflating labor, should inform themselves about unemployment reserve funds set up by forward looking corporations, including the General Electric Company.

The Glasgow Works of Rochester, makers of machine tools, for example, recently communicated with all employees who had been laid off since September 1, 1929. To those who had been unable to find other employment, the company immediately gave one week's pay. Some of the men were returned to the payroll through rotating employment. Others were promised one week's pay every month for four months, provided they were unable to find other jobs.

In setting forth the philosophy behind this humane program, a spokesman for the company said:

"Many of these receiving this pay each month may never again be employed by the company, but the management felt a certain responsibility for these men and was glad to do something to help them tide over the period. While these men would have been much happier to render service for this money, nevertheless they appreciated the fact that the company could not give them this if they had done so and doubly appreciated the company's attitude toward them as expressed by its desire to help them during this most trying period."

This is, of course, only a makeshift scheme to meet a difficult problem, but it should give the germ of an idea to other corporation executives, especially where a company has large surplus funds available.

After the depression, larger numbers of companies should deliberately set unemployment reserves to meet their responsibilities toward workers in a systematic manner in the slack periods of the future.

The idea is gradually dawning on the business community that it is shameful ruthlessly to throw competent and loyal workers out into the street.

Such a wasteful use of national manpower is not only inhumane, but is also economically harmful. It makes for instability of purchasing power, and tends to prolong depression.

Business stability must spring from conscious plans for regulating the employment of men and women on the payrolls of the Nation's business.

That Cigarette Tax

Now it is proposed to levy a special tax on cigarettes to pay the cost of old-age pensions.

Why not hot dogs, lollipops and fried clams? Perhaps it is because the cigarette manufacturers are largely outside Massachusetts and do not have a lobby or the influence to practice political skillfulness on Beacon Hill.

Or perhaps it is because the exact statement on the Hill assumes that the aged and indigent parents of cigarette smokers are the only ones who will derive the benefits of the beneficent old-age pension law.

Or it may be that in their prudish conservatism they have decided to harass and penalize those who get some satisfaction out of a smoke just as they took away the workman's delight in his glass of refreshing beer through prohibition.

Nuisance taxes are usually political subterfuges, which array one class against another, provoke discontent and live to dog the political footsteps of the officials who sponsor them.

The cost of such taxes should fall evenly and upon all people in proportion to their ability to pay them.

'Bossy Husband' at Party

By WINIFRED BLACK

THERE HE WAS at the party

the other night—the bossy husband.

I thought the bossy husband was as out of date as the red-wheeled buggy and spit curls.

But there he was at the party as large as life, and too bossy for words.

His wife is a pretty little thing and she is very intelligent, much more intelligent than her poor, stupid, blundering, slow-witted husband.

Maybe that's what was the Winifred Black matter with husband.

Perhaps he had an "inferiority complex," or whatever it is that induces people to make boys, brags, outrageous to their own selves.

But, anyhow, there he was, bossing away as if he was an Indian in a tepee with a squaw for a mate.

And the wife—oh, her big black eyes filled with tears.

"Well, yes, I was—but I wanted to shake her, just the same."

This woman has two grown sons and two grown daughters.

She was laid a widow with four little children, and she worked and slaved and sacrificed to bring up those children.

She sent them to good schools, she dressed them well, she fed them comfortably, and then, when they were all on their own feet—the two girls married and the boys in good positions—what did the woman do but step out and marry a widower, a man she had known when she was a girl.

She had not seen the man for years, but she had always been sentimental about him in a vague, old-fashioned sort of way, so she went to the town where the man lived and married him, and there she is out of all her friends, and almost a stranger to her own children.

The two boys have followed their mother to the interior city—but it doesn't do their mother much good for them to be in the same city with her.

The bossy man won't let her see them at all.

He doesn't forbid her outright, but whenever he knows one of the boys is apt to drop in he finds some errand downtown and makes his wife go with him.

He takes his wife to his office days and he takes her to meetings with him at night, so that she won't have a chance to see either of the two boys.

Jealous of them—of course, he is. He is jealous of their youth and their promise and of their own mother's love.

And besides, he wants to show that he is "bossy."

Do you know what I hope?

I hope these two sons will come some evening when they are not expected, and I hope one son will get on one side of his mother, and the other will get on the other side, and they will just rush her along to a motor car outside the door and whizz—she—disappear once and for all.

What—separate husband and wife?

Well, death can do it if somebody doesn't rescue that poor, little, brown-haired woman the won't be on this earth with her husband or anyone else, very long.

The bossy husband—why, I thought he was as extinct as the dodo.

He isn't.

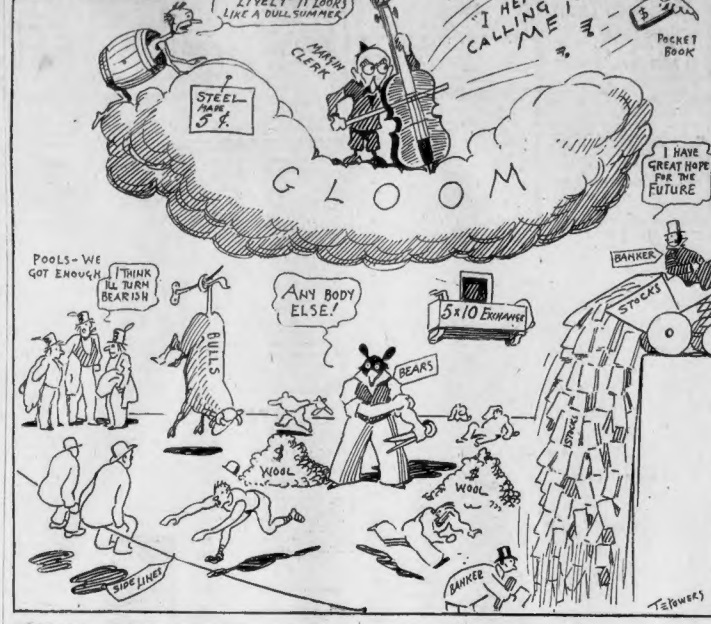

He was him at the party with my own two eyes.

I Hear You Calling Me

By T. E. Powers

Through a mistake in numbers

the morning a courteous young lady answered a telephone call with:

"Black, Starr & Frost, Gotham, Inc."

And I was tempted to rush her over a new set of brass.

A thirty-minute drive up Pelham

Parkway reveals an old-time medicines show selling pain balm and Indian herb remedies. The stage was the back end of a cupped wagon with a flaring banjo perch on each side. The bill offered a ventriloquist, also two blackface comedians, a peroxide-southern and a lightning calculator. A bedlammed proprietor in wide hat and horse bal-ket suit sold the medicines—15 bot-les in as many minutes. Perhaps the French are right, but I'm so used to them I hate to admit it when they say the more the world changes the more it is the same thing.

A child stand on Tenth avenue

capitalizes the cry of the Fur-ries by calling itself: "O

Yeah!"

I often wonder how many people move through life hearing an undeserved brand of scandal. Some years ago, a black-and-white black-and-white, a man dancing with a simpering black-faced girl was going out as a certain phili-thropist. The informant said: "He looks up here to show things up."

The other evening I met the phili-thropist. He was not the person I met in the night club and it developed he was in France at the time he was pointed out. Yet for several years I believe him to be a chest.

An expert photographer writes me

the "emoting" of Greta Garbo and Marlene Dietrich is not an outward show of an inner fire. It is a trick of the camera. Watch their foreheads! In an announced scene where I should run around town peeking at movie ladies' foreheads.

And Garbo is blamed for the business slump in hair parlors. Ladies who used to have their heads bobbed every ten minutes now drop in every three months.

Passing through a hall I overheard a gentleman who lives two in a building is a wonder the building didn't fall in.

Yes, very much in the SHOW-

OFF of the season. And when he seeks a woman he seeks not a rival, but an audience!

BEHOLD, since the beginning of time, woman hath been called the vainest sex, and her weakness for flattery with cause; for in high places, and brought upon her the laughter of cynics.
